

Instructional Design: Small Group

Do the activities in the workstations go with the skill from the previous week or do they go with the current skill?

The purpose of work stations is for students to practice and apply skills that they have almost mastered. Some students will be ready to practice this week's skills, but others may need to work on review skills. Don't forget that stations can also be collaborative; in this case, the stations should be on current skills

Unique solution ID: #1069

Author: Jeff Baxter

Last update: 2015-10-09 20:19